PROFILE OF THE CITY:

Erstwhile Rural Panchayats covered are: Madhyamgram Panchayat, Basunagar Panchayat, and Ganganagar Panchayat. The settlement in the beginning was concentrated at Ganga Nagar & Chandigarh around Madhyamgram Railway Station. The land was covered by agricultural uses, mostly paddy fields. After independence huge influx of refugee settled around Udairajpur, Bankim Pally, etc. In the early 70's Basunagar area was developed as a plotted residential area with the help of a local promoter. Thereafter LIC Township and Bijoyagar came up as plotted townships.

Starting with barely 40,000 to 50,000 population, served by mass transit system, namely railway, job opportunities in the neighboring metropolitan city, growing industries, proximity to a busy air-port and environmentally pleasing locality, more and more urban people got attracted and started settling here. The Madhyamgram Municipality is located within Kolkata Metropolitan Area. Its population as per Census, 2011 is 1.96 lakh. Total population has increased from 1.07 lacs Census, 1991 to 1.56 lacs in 2001 and further to 1.96 lacs in 2011. Projected population of the Municipality is around 2.40 lac by 2021. Gross population (Census) density is nearly 9090 pp sq km in 2011 higher than metro city standard (UDPFI). Projected population may be more with improvements in infrastructure pattern namely rapid transit systems, water, drainage and power supply, socio-economic facilities, employment opportunities etc. etc. . Its main drainage channels are Noaikhal and Banikantha (Chatka) Khal.

The municipality is still growing organically on a rural land form.
